3.0 Introduction

Air Traffic Services organizations are established in order to satisfactorily accomplish the objectives and functions of air traffic services. ATS providers have the responsibility for the overall policy, planning, personnel and management of air traffic services including defining job functions and assigning duties to ATS staff in accordance with the requirements of the Manual of ANS Standards.

4.0 Functions and Activities of ATS

ATS providers are responsible for promoting and supervising the development of civil aviation within Tanzania while fostering safety, achieving efficient use of navigable airspaces and developing and operating satisfactory air traffic service systems. To ensure organized and efficient use of the airspace, ATS providers shall develop procedures for the employment of air traffic controllers and develop and implement training programmes. Besides determining the number of qualified personnel required to operate an ATS unit, ATS providers shall develop job descriptions for each air traffic control position in order to ensure that the functions and activities of ATS are aligned to the requirements of the Regulations.
